MEET SHIMER COLLEGE

SHIMER COLLEGE is a new kind of college. It offers the famous Chicago Plan of Education in a new setting:—a small college in the beautiful country town of Mount Carroll, Illinois. Formerly Frances Shimer College, Shimer College became affiliated with the University of Chicago on April 14, 1950. Now coeducational, it offers to young men and women the opportunity to begin college life after completing two or more years of high school. And—the education these students receive is the finest general, liberal education available.

Dr. A. J. Brumbaugh assumed the presidency of Shimer College on July 1, 1950. As Dean of the College of the University of Chicago, he helped fashion the Chicago Plan. Now, under his experienced leadership, Shimer has adopted this same plan of general, liberal education.

What Is a College Education for? Those who developed the Chicago Plan of Education were firmly convinced a college education must prepare young men and women for an intelligent and happy life. How? By training them to think.

But How Could This Be Done? The Chicago Plan, introduced at the University of Chicago and now adopted by Shimer College, achieves this goal in the following way:

You, as a Shimer student, are given a thorough background in all the major fields of study. The integrated series of required general courses cut across the artificial barriers of departmental fields. The important ability to formulate your own ideas is developed through studying the great works of our own and past generations, and you'll find it easy to express these ideas in the small and informal Shimer classes.

This educational plan takes into consideration the material you have already learned. Placement tests are given when you enter. If you show that you already have a college student's mastery of any subject, that subject is eliminated from your requirements for a degree. Thus, you need remain in school only until you have completed courses you have not yet learned.

Your individual program of study is worked out with your faculty adviser—the same adviser who gives you counseling throughout your College Program.

You will receive an A.B. degree when your program is completed. Your diploma marks the end of your general, liberal education. And you, with an excellent usable background in every major area of human knowledge, will have gained the ability to think for yourself. You are now equipped to choose your vocation wisely, to take up specialized training, and to think as a mature and intelligent adult in a busy, complex world.

But Is It Fun? Yes, it's fun because the best education is the best fun, both in getting it and in having it. It's fun because Shimer believes that your leisure hours, as well as your class hours, are an important part of living.

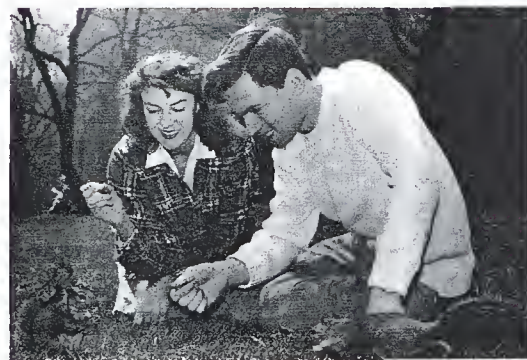

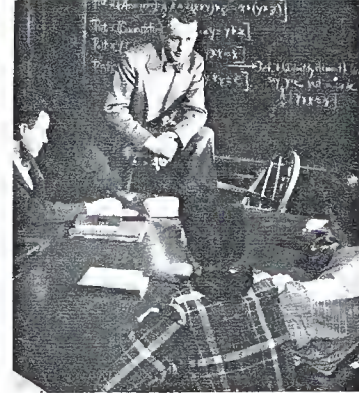

Are you interested in music, art, drama? Then you'll enjoy the art studios, little theater work, and all the phases of individual and group music.

Are you interested in sports? Shimer places emphasis on student participation in athletics rather than on "spectator sports." Good coaching and the finest equipment make possible an active intramural program. And you'll use Shimer's own nine-hole golf course, its swimming pool, and tennis courts. Near-by Glen-garry Stables, combined with the scenic trails provided by the countryside, make riding one of the favorite pastimes at the College.

Dances, parties, a horse show—these are but a few of the exciting additions to Shimer's social life.

Fee for the academic year at Shimer College is $1,185. This includes tuition, board, and room. Entering classes: MIDYEAR, February 1951; AUTUMN, September 1951. For further information about Shimer College, write:
